The bill to legalize and enlarge the Woman's Bureau of the Police Department and the bill to regulate osteopaths were debated, but were not acted upon. Representative Zihiman (Republican), Maryland, chairman of the District committee, promised that the Woman's Bureau bill would be the first to be considered on next District day. It was decided to delay action on the osteopath bill until it is seen what the Senate does with the Copeland bill to regulate all the healing arts.

Between them yesterday, Blanton and Schafer must have done two-thirds of the talking. As soon as the House 'ras convened, Blanton was on his feet demanding the floor on a point of personal privilege. When he had been recognized, he embarked on an hourlong speech in which he denied that he

If he had any intention of discussing the case of Orville Staples, who was dismissed from the force Saturday, he was doomed to disappointment, for the moment he mentioned the Staples case, Schafer was on his feet shouting objections.

For once, Blanton seemed to be losing his taste for local investigations. He told how, during his defense of Staples, he had to work sixteen and eighteen hours a day, and he told of the money he had spent out of his own pocker as a result of that and other investigations.

He had never asked to be put on the District committee, he said, and he had an desire to be on it now. Then he expressed the hooe that he would be "relieved" of that committee assignment

MODIFIED MERGER TO UTILITIES BOARD

Joint Resolution to Be Presented to Congress Appended to Agreement.

PROCEDURE TECHNICAL: ASSENT IS EXPECTED

Hitch Possible in Budget Report on Transferring Cost of Street Paving.

Final tender of the modified street

Final tender of the modified street car merger agreement, together with a draft of a joint resolution to be presented to Congress to authorize the merger, was made to the Public Utilities Commission yesterday by the traction companies. The agreement is a mended as directed by the commission several days ago. Neither the agreement nor the joint resolution has received formal approval by the commission, but the point is technical. The commission will sign the agreement and approve the resolution as soon as all legal phases of each have been passed on by the corporation counsel, who is now studying the documents. Yesterday, also, the District Commissioners sent to the Bureau of the Budget the text of section 2 of the joint resolution which, if adopted by Congress, will relieve the merged street car company of the expense of crossing policemen, repairs to bridges and street pavement and any share in the original cost of pavements or bridges, to ascertain whether the provisions of the section would conflict, if passed, with the President's financial program.

Object to Paving Transfer.

The Commissioners approved the section as referring to policemen and bridges, but withheld their opinion as to street pavements. They do not approve the transfer of the cost of paving between tracks and for two feet on each side from the traction companies to the taxpayers, because of a report made by the highway department stating that nearly all deterioration of pavement contiguous to car tracks is due to vibration from cars passing over the tracks. This report, however, they did not forward to the Bureau of the Budget.

It is expected that the bureau wil

It is expected that the bureau will report on section 2 of the agreement within a few days, during which also the opinion of the corporation counsel is expected and it is thought that the agreement and resolution will be reported to Congress this week.

It is possible that a hitch may develop in these proceedings in case the Bureau of the Budget reports that the transfer of street paving charges from the confipanies to the District would conflict with the President's fiscal plan. In that event it is doubtful whether the Public Utilities Commission could, under the law, forward the agreement containing that provision to Congress.

Delay is the only danger foreseen in that event because the paving charges foreseen in that event is used to the District would confine the law, forward the agreement containing that provision to Congress. "The Commissioners favor the proposal to relieve the new company to be created under the merger agreement from the salary expense of policemen at street railway crossings. They also favor relieving the new company from bearing a share of the cost of renewals or repairs to public bridges crossed by its lines, including new construction, to the extent indicated in the quoted paragraph of the proposed legislation. to the extent indicated in the quoted paragraph of the proposed legislation.
"The Commissioners do not at this time desire to express an opinion as to whether the new company should be relieved of any part of the cost of new paving and maintenance of paving as stablished by existing law.

The question was considered befor the Public Utilities Commission whether in view of the provisions of the merger act of March 4, 1925, it became nec

"The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are particularly anxious to cooperate in every way possible to have the merger bill placed before Congress at the very earliest date, and because of the lateness of the present session they would appreciate prompt action by your bureau in indicating to them whether the provisions of the proposed legislative paragraph hereinbefore quoted is or is not in conflict with the financial program of the President."

Detroit, April 9 (A.P.).—Commander Richard Byrd's South Pole plane has made its first trip of discovery, carrying Bernt Balchen and Floyd Bennett, pilots, to the gold fields at Reinder Lake, Manitoba. Two pilots of the proposed Byrd polar expedition told the story on their arrival after ten days' test flying in the Canadian province. While an army of prospectors was held up at Le Pas, awaiting the spring thaws before attempting the fifteen days "mush" into the gold country. Bennett said, he, Balchen and a group of men associated with the Canadian Western Airways, took off from Le Pas and completed the trip in less than three hours. The party staked 31 claims.

"Every member of our party, including the cook and his helper, staked claims," Bennett said. "One of our claims was next to one that sold for $20,000 while we were there." Dr. Ransom placed the boy in his car and brought him to the Emer-gency Hospital, where it was stated, he suffered a possible fractured skull. His condition is considered serious. The child's mother, Mrs Charles Hollings-worth, had sent him to the grocery store. Policeman Raymond Crack, of Arlington County, is investigating the case.

CHICAGO'S PRIMARY TODAY.

The peace-loving citizens of Chicago will awaken today with a feeling of mingled dread and hope. No one knows what the day will bring forth. The struggle between the two Republican factions for the control of Cook County has already been marked by every form of crime, including murder. The casting of the ballots may bring on renewed violence. Few signs point to an orderly election.

The center of the campaign war has been Mayor William Hale Thompson, whose political life is not in the balance in the day's primary. The noise that he has made has tended to obscure the real issues. The voters who go to the polls today will be voting for senatorial, gubernatorial, congressional, State and county candidates. The most important questions to be decided are whether Gov. Small is to continue to rule over the destinies of the State and Robert E. Crowe to hold the overlordship of Chicago crime and vice. A secondary skirmish is the one between Frank L. Smith, who is seking a new mandate from the people of Illinois for a place in the Senate, and Ordinarily these questions, which have assumed national importance, would be of minor importance to the rest of the country. The selection of a county and State ticket does not usually create much stir beyond State oundaries. In this particular instance the very apparent alliance between crime and politics has shocked the whole United States. Conditions in Illinois and Cook County create cankerous condition in the national body politic which decent citizens everywhere would like to see removed. Outsiders have been more than surprised that bad matters could as far as they have and they look to the citizens of Illinois to make certain that conditions do not become any worse.

The fortunes of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, candidate for representative-at-large; Martin B. Madden, who is faced with a severe fight in his home district, and the outcome of the struggle for delegates to the Republican and Democratic national conventions will draw their share of attention. The general hope, however, is that Chicago will find some way cleaning house, or at least make a start by turning out some of those who are responsible for its present disgrace.

FLOODS AGAIN.

The danger from flood waters is once more present in the Mississippi Valley and along tributary streams. The Arkansas and the White are near flood stage. More than 5,000 acres are under water now and 10,000 are likely to be, even if fortune favors that territory. It is impossible to estimate the devastation if the two floods should meet.

Meanwhile Congress is still in a contempla tive mood so far as flood control legislation is concerned. It would be impossible to do anything to correct present conditions, but the news from Arkansas serves as a reminder of the danger that always threatens the Mississippi Valley. At intervals the residents of that section are fortunate. The many heavily burdened streams and rivers empty themselves in rotation, without an overflow. At other times they all rush toward the Gulf of Mexico at once. Then the levees and other protective works that are now in existence give way, and the labor of years is swept

What the residents of the Mississippi Valley demand and what the Nation wants them to have is protection at the earliest possible moment. Congress should not wait for another disaster before initiating a flood control pro-

INCREASED FREIGHT MOVEMENTS.

Car loadings have long been recognized as good index of business conditions throughout the country. Goods in transit are destined either immediately or ultimately for the market, and when there is stagnation in freight movements business conditions can not be on upgrade. Figures issued yesterday by the car service division of the American Railway Association show that the estimated demand by the shippers of the 29 principal commodiies for the second quarter will be approximately 9.035,963 cars, an increase of 323,250 cars above the same period in 1927.

The estimate is based upon figures obtained from thirteen shippers' regional advisory boards, covering every section of the United States. Nine of these districts report an increased demand for cars. In three of the four districts the decrease over the same period last year is estimated at less than 1 per cent. The largest decrease is noted from the Pacific ast, where it is anticipated that the demand will be 1.6 below last year.

are the detailed figures as to the future rements of the various industries. A dese in demand is registered in five lines. se are hay and straw, cotton, cotton seed, citrus fruits and castings, machinery and boilers. Grain, potatoes, live stock and agricultural implements will call for increased shipments. Iron and steel, lumber, cement and automobiles report the need for additional cars. The percentage increase on all lines is 3.7 per cent. These figures, taken in conjunction with the optimistic statements of business leaders from all over the country, appear to confirm rather thoroughly the conclusion that, whatever slight depression may have been felt during the last few months, the corner has been turned now. A continuance of normal conditions of prosperity in a presidential year may not be in line with past precedents, but it is the sort of surprise that the Nation can greet with considerable optimism.

WORKING OUT RADIO PLANS.

All of the plans for reallocation of broadcasting channels as worked out by or presented to the Federal Radio Commission contemplate drastic reductions in the number of stations. In every case three classifications of power are provided for, so that there will be a limited number of stations catering to a national audience, a somewhat greater number serving what will be known as a region and a large number of stations reaching only local audiences. Congress in enacting the equal distribution clause as between Federal radio districts took little notice of the rearrangements that would be made necessary in putting it into effect. Already there are evidences that the repercussion caused by driving a number of stations off the air will be heard in Congress.

It has been evident for many months that there are too many stations. The commission itself originally believed that real relief lay only in reducing the number of stations operating, but under the old law it hesitated to issue an order that would have served to darken a number of studios. Under the new law, however, it takes the stand that it has ample authority to close down stations and it is certain that when the reallocation has been worked out a considerable number of more or less well-known call letters will have been silenced.

The only alternative to reducing the number of stations lies in a divided time schedule. The fact that such a scheme would be both unsatisfactory and uneconomic needs no proof. Station owners themselves realize this and probably would prefer to cease operating rather than accept partial use of a wave channel.

Hearings before the commission prove conclusively that there is no unanimity of opinion as to how radio control best can be accomplished. Various schemes have been worked out by competent engineering authority and equally competent authority has contended that although these plans look well upon paper they probably would break down in practice. Unfortunately, even under the new regulations, the commission must work by trial and error, an unsatisfactory method of procedure, but the best that can be had when definite and workable fundamental rules have not been laid down. Out of this continued experiment it is to be hoped that an orderly and satisfactory broadcasting structure can be reared.

AMERICAN FORESTS.

The week opening April 22 will be devoted to the ninth annual observance of American Forest Week. The movement started originally in the Northwest as a protective measure Now it is observed in a nation-wide sense and given over to an educational campaign in the interest of forests generally. The theory behind Forest Week has caught hold, but there is much to be done yet. In the words of the proclamation issued this year by President Coolidge, "We already have made a beginning in forest renewal, but the task is stupendous and we should permit no satisfaction over what has been done to blind us to the magnitude of what remains to be done."

The primary object of American Forest Week is to enlighten public opinion as to the need of wise and practical conservation of forests and their products. In the last analysis the solution of the forest problem will be greatly assisted by a thorough understanding the public and by public encouragement and cooperation. Only slow progress can be made until the American people understand what forests mean. The common welfare of this generation and the standard of living of posterity require that idle forest land be put to work growing tree crops and that producing land be made more efficient. To do otherwise is to confess that in this age of teeming population, multiplying demands for the natural materials of wealth and boasted scientific and economic knowledge the American people do not have the capacity to utilize efficiently onefourth of the land area of the republic.

CONTRAST IN TELEGRAPH SYSTEMS.

The British Postmaster General, it appears, has made an announcement that officers of his department are to visit the United States in order to study American methods in telegraphy. The explanation of the projected visit is to be found mainly in the two following facts: First, the handling of the telegraph system is one of many functions which the British postoffice department exercises. Secondly, during the fiscal year 1926-1927 the British service incurred a deficit of £1.571.000 $7,855,000), or roughly 7 pence (14 cents) per telegram, while, as it learned with amazement, one American telegraph company reported for the nine months ended Sentember 30, 1927, a net profit of $11,251,769 (about £2,250,354). To accept the bare but extraordinary contrast of these results without examination as to the why and the wherefore is not to be thought of-hence another reason for the mission of investigation.

Pending the official inquiry and report, the London Times, under the heading, "Telegrams -Enterprise in America," publishes the views of a correspondent lately in this country. This correspondent, evidently a Briton, was a good observer, and he sets forth in very clear and readable English the differences he noticed between the British and American systems He begins by showing that the American companies are entirely private commercial ventures and are not owned or run either by State or Federal Government. With them it is a case of "sink or swim." because for them the comfortable raft of a national exchequer is completely out of reach. Hence these companies have to hustle, if they wish to do business and pay dividends. In this connection, the correspondent did not fail to notice the slogan, "Do not write—telegraph," which, though "damnably reiterated," as he says, yet is reinforced by every kind of practical demonstration of the advantages of the service, and, therefore, he realizes, assumes a real significance

This intelligent if slightly caustic commentator does not fail to point out that the 'nominal and admirably concealed" 24-hour system in vogue in Britain finds no counterpart in America, where there is a service that is actual and reliable from midnight to midnight. He also shows the disadvantage under which the British system labors in having a flat-rate basis, by which no account is taken either of distance or of the urgency of the message, whereas the American services allow for both considerations, with their four types of message mentioned in order of urgency and price, and the payment according to distance in each case, on a zoning system. The more attractive rates naturally keep what would otherwise be the slacker hours reasonably filled, and thus serve both efficiency and

At one stage of his communication this outspoken Britisher says that investigation "discloses the unpalatable fact that for energy, enterprise and efficiency" his country is very far behind. It would, perhaps, have been much nearer to the mark had he asserted that the contrasts he has noticed are due to the eternal disadvantage at which government ownership is placed when it is compared with the results of private initiative and control.

THE AMEER'S VISIT.

The privilege of entertaining the Ameer of Afghanistan is quite the most costly experience of the kind that the British, French and German governments have ever enjoyed, according to reports made public following the departure of the royal guest from those countries. It is, it seems, beneath the dignity of the reigning monarch of Afghanistan to pay for such trifles as may take his fancy, and the ameer's tastes, and those of his retinue, proved to be far from modest. The sovereign seems to take whatever pleases his fancy, whether it be in a shop or the home of a host. Those in charge of the ameer's entertainment in London must have kept him carefully away from the jewel room in the tower, where the royal visitor's tastes could hardly have been restrained.

The tradesmen's problem of obtaining payment for the goods which the ameer took with him in his trunks will not be as difficult as might be supposed. The respective governments have indicated their desire to settle the royal visitor's accounts. The ameer was invited to visit Europe for purely educational purposes. The British, for instance, took great pains to show him the practical side of modern warfare. Tank maneuvers were staged for his benefit. Long-range guns were fired. Airplanes were mobilized. No mention was made. of course, of Khyber Pass and the ease with which these modern weapons might penetrate beyond that barrier.

The entire theory of the entertainers was to make sure that the ameer had a good time while he was studying. The pleasant features of the visit might have been forgotten, if the bills which he incurred had been presented. He might, in fact, have gone to Russia, which he will visit next, with a very poor idea of German, French and British manners. 'That would never do, for the European nations are anxious not only to retain the ameer's friendship but to make certain that he does not become too friendly with the Soviet. It is more than likely, therefore, that the Soviet authorities regard with dread the lengths to which they may have to go to equal the hospitality which the ameer has already enjoyed on his educational tour.

A GOLDSMITH MANUSCRIPT.

"Was poet ever trusted before?" was the natural and pertinent inquiry of Dr. Samuel Johnson when informed that Oliver Goldsmith had died in debt to an amount exceeding £2,000. It is to be feared that those very debts and the anxiety which they caused him were, in part, at least, responsible for hastening the ravages of the disease which cut off at 46 one of the greatest and surely the best beloved of the writers of English, whether in poetry or the posthumous value of his script he would not only have been able to live free from debt. but even as a man of independent means, despite his characteristic improvidence and his open-handed generosity, for a few weeks ago in London one of his manuscripts came under the auctioneer's hammer and was knocked down to the prodigious bid of £5,600.

This particular manuscript formed one item of the extensive chess library collected by the late R. H. Rimington-Wilson at Broomhead Hall, Bolderstone. It is a translation into English verse of Vida's "Game of Chess." It is in 679 lines filling 34 pages about 6 inches by 7 inches and is throughout in Goldsmith's own handwriting. It is thought to be the longest poetical manuscript of Goldsmith in existence, but that, of course, can not be dogmatically affirmed. Its history, so far as it is known, is interesting. At one time it belonged to Bolton Corney, a nineteenth century literary critic. It was not published in its entirety until 1855, when Peter Cunningham included it in his edition of Goldsmith's "Works," When Corney died in 1870 the manuscript passed into the hands of a London bookseller. There is a tradition that the latter sold it to Rimington-Wilson for what looks now like the small sum of about 50 guineas

Owners of other Goldsmith manuscripts have reason to be delighted with the result of this recent sale for, of course, it can scarcely fail to make their property appreciate in value. It will have a similar effect on early editions of his novel, his poems, his essays, his plays and his histories. One would give a good deal to know what the shade of the his torian of animated nature, who made tigers lurk along Erie's banks, thinks of the whole matter as he takes his ease in the Elysian

This afternoon at 3 o'clock President Coolidge will toss upon the diamond of Griffith Stadium the first baseball officially to go into fay in the 1928 baseball season. The Wash ington Nationals and the Boston Red Sox will line up at bat. Although for the first time in 23 years the familiar figure of Walter Johnson will be missing, the occasion is propitious. Play ball! May the coming campaign bring the pennant to Washington, where it belongs!

Although she declined to comment further yesterday on the pamphlet published by Mrs. Balile and the "D. A. R. committee of protest," Mrs. Brosseau recently branded the whole group who back the protest against the society's policies as "only a few pacifists within our organization who oppose our support of the Navy bill."

"The two women who have undertaken to purify this society, moreover," she added, "are not even what we classify as active, working members. One of them has never held an office in her chapter, while the other has not attended a chapter meeting in two years."

week in a special sand the cash and the vision had blacklisted hundreds of persons as speakers.

An eighteen-page pamphlet entitled "Our Threatened Heritage," was the medium used for the dissemination of the protest against the blacklist.

It was signed by "a member" not otherwise identified, but responsibility for its publication was taken by Mrs. Baille, who headed a group of well-known women styling themselves "A D. A. R. committee of protest."

The pamphlet charges that chiefly responsible for the blacklist and similar objectionable trends in the society's national policy were Frederick R. Marvin, described as a publisher of "Daily Data Sheets of the Key Men of America:" E. H. Hunter, head of the Industrial Defense Association, and Mrs. Margaret C. to exhaust East if East has three Spades

Another reason for allowing three

HOW TO KEEP WELL =By DR. W. A. EVANS=

Capable of spreading the disease, at least for a time.

There are measles carriers. Out of each 100 exposed to measles there are 10 cases and 90 carriers. In infantile paralysis is around, beware of well people who have been around sick people. When measles is epidemic watch the sick, but disregard those who are nursing them. When infantile paralysis is epidemic, watch especially all the well people who have had anything to do with the sick.

These are the conclusions of Dr. W. L. Aycock. They are based upon a moderate personal experience and a very large amount of investigation. He makes a comparison between measles, diphtheria, and infantile paralysis. This comparison indicates that there is considerable similarity between these three diseases. In all three the disease is most prevalent in young children. The prevalence drops rapidly and almost at the same rate as age advances. This is because, as age advances, most people become immune either by reason of having acquired immunity otherwise.

If 100 susceptible children are exposed to measles, 100 of them will catch the disease, if 100 susceptible children are exposed to measles, 100 of them will catch the disease, if 100 susceptible children are exposed to measles, 100 of them will catch the disease, if 100 susceptible children are exposed to measles, 100 of them will catch the disease, if 100 susceptible children are exposed to measles, 100 of them will catch the disease, if 100 susceptible children are exposed to measles, 100 of them will catch the disease, if 100 susceptible children are exposed to measles, 100 of them will catch the disease, if 100 susceptible children are exposed to measles, 100 of them will catch the disease, if 100 susceptible children are exposed to measles, 100 of them will catch the disease, if 100 susceptible children are exposed to measles, 100 of them will catch the disease in 100 susceptible children are exposed to measles, 100 of them will catch the disease in 100 susceptible children are exposed to measles is around, beware o

MODISH MITZI The Clothes Chanel Created. Chanel mports

Mitzi took Dad with her for reasons best known to herself, but not unconnected with next month's bills, perhaps. Mitzi chose Chanel for her report to the other interested ladies. These two coats show one striking characteristic of Chanel's designs for the season—the use of tucks or seam lines in clusters. The coat to the left has two groups of rectangular tucks, the coat to the right has lines of tucks radiating from a center where a flat knot of fabric is fastened. Other Chanel designs have many more of these knots. One coat carries them all down its back. Chanel's waistline seems to be just at the top of the hips and Mitzi sighs with satisfaction—it's so becoming

The coat to the left is slim and black, and lined with black and white printed crepe. The lines of trimming are also of the print and the fitted lines are new. Next is a sketch of one of Chanel's sport ensembles. The short jacket is loose and swinging and is closed at the throat only by a scarf cut in one with the jacket. The third coat has pointed flares on one side, a double cuff and a double collar. The evening gown has ever so many new points about it—it is made of circ lace, it has a scarf neckline, it has stiffened circular tiers. That ought to be distinction enough for a single evening dress. Mitzl has spent such a satisfying day. Dad? He passed out long ago!

In achieving quiet operation Frigidaire engineers have not lessened the power nor resorted to methods which would reduce the dependability or accessibility of any mechanical parts.

Trading Again Crosses 4,-000,000 Mark—Dealings Heavy on Downturn.

Special to The Washington Post.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York April 9.—Heavy realizing sales set the stock market leaders back substantially following a broad and vigorous rise most of the day and marked the resumption of speculative activities today after the three-day holiday recess. At the outset constructive forces took up the task of carrying the market to higher levels with a strong will, and they remained in the addie up to the final hour, when profit taking selling in large volume brought about a sharp downturn, but in only a few instances cancelled all of the day's gains in active Issues.

Indeed, numerous net advances of 1 to 6 points were showing at the close, and in several stocks appreciations of considerably greater magnitude were well held, such as United States Cast Ifon Pipe's 18 points and 14% points in Purity Baking "B" shares. Many of the bank stocks had sprightly rises for gains which ranged up to 55 points in Bank of America stock, which touched a new peak at 1.450, an 80-point boost, but reacted 25 points before the end of the day

The scope of trading broadened continually as the day progressed and the otal of transactions again crossed the 4,000,000-share mark. Virtually the entire list participated at one stage cr another in the series of bullish demonstrations that made up the first four hours of the session, and there was little or no contraction of dealings on the downturn near the close.

Aside from a few specialties, motor stocks and the rails were most prominent, but the coppers continued well out in front, with the oils, utilities and the usual broad list of specialties coming in for their proportionate share of speculative attention.

Brokers' loans, stiff money conditions resulting from some $35,000,000 withdrawals by banks and other unfavorable factors, such as the passing of the United States Rubber preferred dividend, were thrust aside, so far as their market influence was concerned. Buying orders were in the market for large blocks of stock, and the trenewal of speculation for the rise in the issues naturally were helped by the growing belief that the Eastern consolidation project is much nearer realization now as a consequence of last week's turn toward the four-system solidation project is much nearer realization now as a consequence of last week's turn toward the four-system plan by Eastern executives.

Pipe was the day's most spectacular performer, and shorts in it had a warm time for a spell in the early afternoon. The screws were turned down tightly on the bear element in that stock, which long has been one of the most volatile on the board, and the manner in which it soared told clearly of the absence of nearby offerings of any consequence. Jumping as much as 9½ points between sales at times, it rose some 54 points, to new record levels at 300. But with the tape far behind, the stock had reacted on the floor to 265 before the high quotation of the day came out on the ticker. Subsequently it got back up to 273¾, the close.

Resumption of aggressive buying of Anaconda Copper Mining was another outstanding feature, involving an overnight advance of nearly 5 points, with the first trade showing 33,000 shares thanging hands, and thereafter it ran in immense volume for a total turnover of 270,400 shares. The price boomed up far into new high territory at 72% and closed 6 points net higher at 72%.

On General Motors-Chrysler merger talk, these shares, along with Graham-Paige and Studebaker, led the automotive group. Chrysler, on trading involving 205,600 shares, got up to within one-eighth of its previous 1928 high, and finished 2½ above last Thursday's final quotation. Motors got up to 196%, but subsequently reacted 5¾ points and finished a points of its advance. Studebaker's gain was an even point. Most of the rest of the motors were but fractionally changed. Mack Trucks lost 3½ points on the day.

On its preferred dividend omission, U.S. rubber shares were one of the few weak spots. The first preferred got down to a new low at 79 on liberal offetings and ended 5¾ net lower, the common losing 1½.

Rails participated prominently in the rise. Chesapeake & Ohio, Lackawanna, with a 4½ gain; Lehigh Valley and Reading was an even favored in the east-common losing 1½.

Rails participated prominently in the rise. Chesapeake & Ohio, Lackawanna, with a 4½ gain; Lehigh Valley and Reading were most favored in the eastern group, Wabash dropping back after an early upturn and finishing 2½ net lower. Kansas City Southern experienced a spirited spurt and gained 2½ net. Texas & Pacific again was prominent, but yielded 1¾ on the day. Elsewhere, net advances included American Linseed's 7 points: Brooklyn Edison, 6 points; American Bank Note, 6½; Advance Rumely, 5½, Mullins Manufacturing, 4½; Pressed Steel Car preferred, 4½; Interborough, 5½, and American Zinc, 4 points.

Because of the observance of Easter Monday as a holiday abroad, foreign exchanges were few. Sterling was unchanged. Italian and German rates yielded fractionally and Swiss francs improved one-fourth. Scandinavians and other continentals and far Eastern exchanges were not changed. South Americans were inactive.

TRACTION BONDS AGAIN

Interboro Issues Sag Toward Close-Coppers Are in Good Demand.

FOREIGN GROUP IS STEADY

New York, April 9 (A.P.).—New York Traction bonds again today led the advance in the bond market, with virtually all of them touching new peaks. The demand apparently reflected growing belief that the Federal court will grant the long-sought fare increase. Interborough Rapir Transit obligations all were at new tops for the year, but showed a sagging tendency toward the close under profit taking. The convertible 7s and refunding 5s closed at 100, their previous peak. Manhattan Railway convertible and second 4s both reached new high levels New York Railyays convertible and second 4s both reached new high levels New York Railyays convertible and second 4s both reached new high levels New York Railyays 6s moved up more than 2 points to a new high at 27%. Third Avenue dijustment 5s sagged after registering a new top at 64.

Coppers were in demand, their gains reflecting the strength of the stocks. Anaconda Copper Mining convertible 7s advanced 5½ points net, touching a new high at 128½. Andes Copper Mining 3s were slow to gain, but closed fractionally higher.

Railroad bonds were not generally sotive. St. Paul 5s of 1975 made a simall gain, but the 5s of 2000 sagged. Jowa Central refunding 4s advanced hore than a point and Florida East Coast 5s reached a new peak. Seaboard Air Line refunding 4s dropped 1½ points and Pennsylvania Gold 5s, Southern Railway 5s and a few others showed smaller declines.

International Telephone 4½s advanced more than a half point. Montana-Power 5s closed lower after touching their previous top.

The foreign group was steady, but there were numerous soft spots, including Republic of Bolivia 8s, which sagged more than a point. Brazil Railway 7s, Japanese Government bonds continued firm, but showed little activity.

Summing Up

HE sum total of human ex-perience in investment mat-ters is that speculative investments inevitably take their toll of losses and that only such securities as First Mortgage Notes, bought through a House of un-impeachable standing, can lay claim to absolute soundness.

In 1869 Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Company established an important Safety Measure—put into force a policy of sell-ing only SOUND FIRST MORTGAGE NOTES on improved Washington properties. Today, 59 years later, the same sound policy is still faithfully followed.

As a result, your money invested through Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Company is safe—and yields 6%.

G. U. Tossers Many Long Shots to Battle For National League Flag Of Beating

Yankees Dominate American Circuit but 7 Clubs Are Conceded Chance in Rival Loop. Cubs Seen as Better Fit for Drive.

ALAN J GOULD

(Associated Press Sports Editor). THE New York Yankees are the odds-on-favorite in the American League race that has an advance nd solitary showing today in the Nation's Capital but it is a great season or long shots in the National League errby.

Seven of the eight clubs in the older circuit will have at least a voice in the debate even if all are not actually able to carry the argument into the final stages of the campaign. Only the Philles are dismissed from calculations that promise the biggest and most exciting National League scramble in verse.

The National's policy seems to be for more and longer pennant arguments in contrast to the Yankee notion of making it a private fight. There were four outstanding pennant contenders in the National League race last year and a fifth club. Cincinnati having a lot to say about the order of finish.

In such a free-for-al: as the one that gets under way tomorrow it is only natural to find in blossom. If not full bloom, hopes and aspirations that have not been so conspicuous through the last few years.

The Chicago Cubs, for instance, haven't won a pennant since 1918. They threatened last year, but didn't have enough experience to stand the gaff. Right now Joe McCarthy's amont: shot of the National League cam-

Only five out of 52 experts have picked the Cubs to win, but if the Bruins continue to hit the pace they have displayed so far in spring training a lot of the boys will make a belated rush to get on the Chicago band wagon. Those who picked the Cubs will be heard from later if they win.

This is McCarthy's third year in charge of the Cub outfit. It has been on the upgrade ever since he took hold and may break through to the top this year on the impetus it seems to have gained from the addition of "Kiki" Cuyler's speed and punch.

It was the headache they acquire trying to win the pennant-deciding game from Cincinnati last season that affected the Pirates in the world's series. The Bues were exhausted from the strain of battling a club which was only fifth in the final standing, but which was playing as good ball as any outfit in the league at the close. These Reds are starting the race with the same outfit that was so troublesome late last season plus the benefit of These Reds are starting the race with the same outfit that was so troublesome late last season, plus the benefit of having their Cuban star, Adolfo Luque, in the best of shape of his career.

The guiding hand of Rogers Hornsby is already apparent in the progress of the Boston Braves. Rogers has displayed a genius for leadership. He brought the Cardinals up in the first division after a hard fight in 1925, led them to the pennant in 1926, and had a big part in the great drive of the Giants last season. He has different material to work with this season, but his dynamic presence on the field vill make the Braves a tough team to beat. Meanwhile the Giants, under the indomitable guidance of McGraw, seem to have overcome much of the handicap of Hornsby's sudden departure. If 18, Cohen can plug the second base gap the club will be a contender.

Brooklyn, with as great a pitch-side.

Brooklyn, with as great a pitching staff as any club in either league and new strength elsewhere, may be an important factor in the race. The Robins have a habit of making themselves' conspicuous every four years, and this is the year they are due.

But. like most of the other clubs, even among the favorites, Brooklyn has some weak spots. The Cubs have infield uncertainties and the Pirates a pitching worry or two. The Cardinals could use another outfield star. There are question marks at second base and and the box for the Giants.

As in the National, seven American League Clubs are shooting at the same mark. The difference is that one group is a mining at the pennant, while the other is shooting at the Yankees. The Athletics seem well equipped to do the Most consistent firing. Connie Mack has plenty of reserves on hand to replace any of his veterans who show signs of weakening.

The first two popular choices on each circuit lined up as opponents.

In the American, the Yankees engage with the Athletics, while in the National the Pirates hook up with the Cardinals.

With the exception of the Senators and Red Sox, all the clubs begin hostilities on Wednesday. Washington and Boston go into action tomorrow.

Indications are that Benton will take the mound for the Glants against his former club mates, the Braves, who of the McGraw school, on the peak.

For the first time in years, "Muddy" Ruel, Washington's pre-mier catcher, will not be behind the plate in the opening game, his weak arm having forced an extend-ed rest, and Bennie Tate, popular little second-string backstop with a punch in his bat and a spring in his arm, will do the catching honors.

A sprained instep will keep Manager Bucky Harris from leading his forces in person from his station at second base in his club's first game and he will be replaced either by Bobby Reeves, former regular shortstop, or Bob Hayes, young utility infielder, whose recent batting spurt has made him a favorite for the position.

At shortstop a new favorite will be seen Grant Gillis, product of the University of Alabama, whose smoothness affeid and fine hitting has stamped him the best of the three shortstops on the club, is in the opening day line-up.

A means that it probably will be Bedwell Day in Maryland this aft. The old kid has five of his performers slated to sport silks over the Bowie course and all look good.

In the second race, FAIR LARK will carry the colors of "Bed" against a most inferior lot. The only opposition probable is due from the Richardson-Taylor entry. It is merely a question, however, whether FAIR LARK is ready.

third spasm, Bedwell is shooting from of the day and it would seem as though he is not wrong in his belief. BANTON and CHAIRMAN will run coupled in the speculation in the fifth, and Bedwell fancies that they will have quite an argument from HON-EST JOHN and NAT EVENS, but he will get a price, and that's what counts.

FAIR ANITA is due to show smart improvement in the fourth. ELOISE and SKYLIGHT are the main contenders. It is a rather open heat, but if FAIR ANITA takes a notion to run, she will be there at the finish with belis on.

A misunderstanding of some kind arose and no explanation has been given although it has been intimated that the Nationals were unable to go through with the deal because their request for walvers on the young southpaw was not acted upon favorably by at least one club which put in a claim for him.

Rather than turn Brown over to another major league club, Manager Harris has decided to hold on to the player for further trial. The youngster has been bothered with a sore arm which has prevented him from showing his best form.

Harris has decided to hold on to the player for further trial. The youngster has been bothered with a sore arm which has prevented him from showing his best form.

Coach Clyde Milan, who managed the Memphis Chicks last season while Brown was starring there, insists that the player has the necessary ability so that the Nationals' failure to release him at this time may prove to be all for the better.

Umpire Roy VanGrafian, who has been officiating at the Nats' spring games, left Washington yesterday for a short visit to New York before continuing on to Chicago, where he will open the season. Although "Van" has seen a full year's service, this will be the first time he has worked with Bill McCours, Me and McCours are being me. Playing beside him will be the first time he has worked with Bill McGowan. He and McGowan are both the youngest and most colorful of the American League umpires.

President Clark Griffith now knows President Clark Griffith now knows that he made a mistake in booking today's game at Baltimore. Not only was the weather in the Monumental City so cold that the players battled pneumonia as well as the Orioles, but Manager Harris no doubt could have put the day to better use with a longer workout at the Georgia Avenue Stadium. A drill was scheduled for this morning, but it was such a short one that little benefit resulted. Barnes' services were temporarily lost when he was spiked on the left ankle when siding into second in the first inning. Reeves also slightly turned his ankle.

HUDKINS BAN UP TO FIGHT BODY

Bennie Leonard May Get Chance at Welter Crown.

EW YORK, April 9.—Jess McMahon, matchmaker for Madison Square Garden, is so peeved over the refusal of Ace Hudkins, of Omaha, to step up and sign for that proposed world's welterweight title bout with Joe Dundee that he is going before the New York State Athletic Commission tomorrow and suggest that the Ace be removed as ranking challenger for Joe's title.

If favorable action is taken on Jess' suggestion, he intends to submit the names of Benny Leonard, retired undefeated world's lightweight champion, and Sergt. Sammy Baker as logical opponents for Dundee for a bout to be held in the Yankee Stadium in May.

to be held in the Yankee Stautum ...

May.

Leonard, who has outgrown the lightweight class and is said to be hankering for a chance to fight Dundee, can have the fight if he is willing to cut his original demand of a $150,-1000 guarantee down the middle and the commission sanctions the match. Of course the commission would not sanction any bout wherein a guarantee over the stipulated percentage was being offered one of the contestants. But McMahlon can sidestep that issue by showing the commission in black and white that he is merely going to give Benny a percentage of the spoils.

If the Leonard proposition doesn't click with the commission, then Me-Mahon will ask sanction for a bout be-tween Dundee and Baker. This would not draw one-third the money that a Leonard-Dundee clash would, but Jess would be tickled to make it if the Leonard proposition is rejected.

Queer Birds. II. FLAMINGOS.

Latin word meaning "fiame," and is a good one. The bird's bright coat reminds one of a flame when seen in motion.

measure six feet in height. The males have a brighter and more flashing reddish color than the females or the young.

These big, awkward-looking birds make their living by grubbing for food in shallow waters. Their chief "game" is composed of worms, minnows and shellfish. They seize these with their curious bent beaks. As they stand in the water their feet seem restless, but the purpose of the movement is to turn up something good for Mr. and Mrs. Flamingo to eat.

The feet of flamingos are webbed, and they can sxim in deep water. You may guess, however, that they are not experts at the swimming art—their legs are too long to permit rapid swimming motion.

CAPITALIZATION

(Upon Completion of This Financing)

Outstanding 250,000 shares 237,850 shares Common Stock (No Par)..... No Funded Debt. No Preferred Stock Mr. Otto B. Shulhof, President of the Company, summarizes his letter as follows: HISTORY AND BUSINESS: American Neon Light Corporation was organized in May, 1927, to manufacture Neon Gas Filled Tubes for use in illuminated display advertising and for general spectacular and useful illuminating purposes, such as Outdoor Signs, Airport Beacon Lights, etc. The Company has exclusive right in the United States to all of the luminescent tube patents granted to Paul François Le Brun, a well known authority in this field, who is associated with the Company as its Chief Engineer. He has been signally successful in installing Neon Tubes in advertising display and Aeroplane Beacon Lights abroad. These installations have been giving satisfactory service for more than four years.

Neon Gas Filled Tubes are superior in every respect to any other method of outdoor illumination They glow with a soft, penetrating luminosity which is not only extremely attractive and far-reaching in effect, but is almost entirely constant. Economy is their outstanding characteristic. The tubes employing Neon Gas in place of a filament are the nearest approach to the development of "cold light" and effect a saving in the consumption of electric current of over 75%

EARNINGS: Messrs. Sanderson & Porter, Industrial Engineers, have made a survey of the Company's business. In their report they point to the tremendous savings in electric current consumption incident to the use of Neon Tubes, their fundamental appeal based on strong economic factors, and to the excellent earning possibilities of the Company.

Messrs. Leslie, Banks & Co., Public Accountants, have estimated that during the fiscal 6 months period ending March 1st, 1928, the unfilled orders on the company's books amounted to $1,110,000, which on the basis of costs determined by our Industrial Engineers will produce net earnings equal to $1.85 per share on 238,850 shares of common stock, after depreciation and taxes or more than 10% on the purchase price of this issue; and that the Company's earnings for the calendar year 1928 based on a gross sales program of approximately $4,000,000. This estimate reflects all maximum costs incident to the production, advertising and distribution of the Company's product and indicates the net profits of the Company, before depreciation and Federal taxes for that period, will be $802,656, which is equivalent to approximately $3.40 per share of Common Stock outstanding.

PURPOSE: The entire proceeds of this issue will be used for expansion purposes and for the installation of additional equipment to place the Company in a position to accept the large additional orders now offered.

MANAGEMENT: The Management is in the hands of successful men who have large personal investments in the Company.

The resolutions charge that the Terminal Refrigerating & Warehousing Co., the Potomac Freight Terminal Co. and the Pennsylvania Railroad have "lobbled" the measure through the House and the District committee of the Senate, and that they favor the Southwest site, because it is adjacent to land owned by them.

Senator Tydings, of Maryland, yesterday made public correspondence between him and the District Commissioners in regard to the market site. # WHITE HOUSE LAWN MIRTHFUL AS 35,000 CHILDREN ROLL EGGS legs dominated yesterday's celebration of Easter in Washington—many-colored eggs—that were rolled, thrown and eaten by the thousands of happy children who thronged the White House Grounds, covered the broad slopes of the Washington Zoo and swarmed over every available open stretch in the parks of the city, inclusive of the Monument Grounds.

President Looks Upon Gay Scene; Cabinet Women View Merriment.

38 YOUNGSTERS LOST PLAYING ON GROUNDS

For the youth or Washington celebrated Easter Monday in the only way it knew how, and that called for eggs, and more eggs. There were shells in the White House fountain, there were yolks littered over the green expanse of the White House lawn, and there were eggs in the cage of Rebecca, the White House raccoon.

The crowds were glow to gather in the grounds about the Executive Mansion, but as the day advanced and the sun came out from behind the haze of clouds that enveloped it most of the morning, the inclosure filled rapidly. A check made at the two gates showed that 30,975 had entered. About 30,000 gathered there last year.

Boys First to Enter. The first to enter the grounds was 8-year-old John Atems Tillotson, of 4402 Stanford street closely followed by Eugene S. Leggett, 2½ years old, of 1750 Sixteenth street, and Billy Whitmore, 1½ years old, of 1706 S street northwest.

President Coolidge passed most of the day at his desk in the White House, but at 12:30 found time to view the children at play from the south portico of the mansion. He did not reappear, though a throng waited expectantly near the building. Wives of Cabinet members and their children passed frequently across the portico.

niembers and their children passed frequently across the portico.

There were children in the enclosure who remembered Mrs. Coolidge's custom of mingling among the celebrants, the temperamental Rebecca in tow, and Rob Roy, her white coille, at her side. Held at the sick bed of her mother in New England, she was missed by the White House visitors.

38 Youngsters Lost.

Lost children kept the White House police force busy, but all were returned to the arms of their parents before the last strains of the Marine Band concert marked the end of festivities. By actual count, 38 were lost in the course of the egg rolling. A dozen were treated for minor hurts at a hospital tent on the grounds. Youthful "scalpers" reaped a harvest helping adults crash the gates.

Among the Easter gifts received at the White House were two dozen tiny chicks, dyed bright colors in the manner of Easter eggs, sent to the President by a Savannah, Ga., concern. An admirer in Mississippi sent Mrs. Coolidge two kittens.

The Washington Zoo was not forgotten in the rush for the wide open places. Head Keeper Blackburn reported approximately 38,000 children and elders accommodated there. The figure fell far below the total for last Easter.

But the thousands that journeyed to the Zoo were disappointed if they went to view the wide variety of animals captive there. Only the bears, buffalo, deer and a few others caged in the open, were to be seen, as the buildings were tightly closed, under special order.

were tightly closed, under special order.

Two years ago, according to Keeper Blackburn, there was a panic in the crowded lion house when one of the beasts roared. The crowd thought the animal was free of his cage, and women and children were trampled in the rush for the doors. Since then the buildings have been locked on Easter Monday.

Children of sightseers who visited the United States Capitol yesterday converted the subway train between the Capitol and the Senate Office Building into a senic railway, following an order from Vice President Dawes that all applicants for rides be accommodated. The order followed objections from operators when children took over all available seats in the subway train. And so there were many senators who walked from their offices to the Capitol building yesterday.

Among the wives of officials who visited the White House for the egg rolling were Mrs. Curtis D. Wilbur, Mrs. Herbert Hoover and Mrs. James J. Davis. Mrs. Davis and her children were acompanied by the Secretary of Labor. Mrs. Cary T. Grayson and herboys, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Steams, of Boston, also were among the White House guests.

Celebrated Musical Comedy, With Mexican Border Background, Comes Here After Record Run on Broadway-Several Stars in the Cast.

Flo Ziegfeld's masterpièce amongst the musical comedies. Mr. Ziegfeld's penchant for costumes, new ones to replace old ones worn and frazzled, helps turn the trick, furnishes the elixir of youth. The start last night in the National Theater had all the earmarks of a premiere, with the exception of polish and precision in performance that first nights never know. With but one important change in the cast—Walter Catlett, the comedian, has joined forces with the troupe—the company comes intact from its New York success.

Away to a whirlwind start. 'Rio Rita' was greeted here with all the joy and acclaim accorded the cherry blossoms. It is, no mistake, the aristocrat of musical comedies. Just when there was one like it, as fine, as soul satisfying, deponent stateth not. Twill be a long time, too, before the masters produce another one-half its equal. Ziegfeld night easily rest on his cars.

Its scenes laid on the Mexican border, there is opportunity in 'Rio Rita' for an admixture of color, and complexities, and costuming, to delight the Ziegfeldian heart. A clash between a Texas ranger and a grand senor of the Southern republic, over the hand of a girl, the book is richly embellished with spot opportunities for song and sentiment; so that when the versatile Harry Tierney, and his partner, Joe McCarthy, set about shooting at song hits, they had an open target. They came off with the medals.

Four striking song hits in the first act, some sixteen Albertina Rasch girls gilde into the pale moonlight, visions of feminine pulchritude enough to make a Spanish holiday. When, at the end, or almost the end, of the first act, some sixteen Albertina Rasch girls gilde into the pale moonlight, visions of loveliness all, the world seems to melt away in a dream. The genial Mr. Robbins, of the local Keith music hall, entering into the spirit of the times—i. e., the N. V. A and Easter week joint celebration—has assembled a bill of very extraordinary proportions to charm the variety fans this week. The bill gets away to a good start, picks up speed at the midsection and speeds away to a climax that brings back memories of the old time when big time was actually big. The headline honors are set aside for the distinguished character actor. Mr. Louis Mann, who brings back a melange of character studies to while away a pleasant twenty minutes. Mr. Mann's act runs all the way from comedy to targedy—and a clientele of Mann enthusiasts made the most of their moments.

Naturally, there are beauties among the ladies of the ensemble, or Mr. Zlegfeld would not have them; such fair

GREAT ATTENTION PAID TO ALL COLOR SCHEMES

all ages of mankind, but especially for growing generations.

Crime, sloth and ignorance are too frequently the result of unfortunate surroundings. There are geniuses, of course, who may thrive in attics and starve for the beautiful things they hearts desire, who may be denied everything they crave, and all that the usual man has, and still become a force in the world of art and of letters. But for the ordinary run of citizens, the backbone of the Nation, something better in the way of living is needed to give the proper impetus to ambition, and to stir the creative instinct into being. Even those who are denied these things and rise to the heights of the immortals find some way of satisfying their urge by the riches offered by museums, art exhibitions and other public places where culture, refinement and good taste are the rule.

There is none to deny that all men would be better off if able to convey the same desires and to enjoy their fution into their private lives, back to the nearest fundament.

Law of Environment.

The "Home Beautiful" exhibit intends to stress the law of environment by showing just how beauty, art and utility can be crowded into homes—regardless of the income of the owner—and benefit the whole family. Of course, it is admitted that one man can aftord pleasures another man can not have, but in home furnishings, good taste, ability to select and arrange properly often give a comparatively, poor man a home which is far more attractive and far more homelike than can ever be the case for a much richer man who lacks the artistic talent.

For this reason many homes are crowded with everything the owners could possibly ask, more things are bought and placed here and there, and the result is the same—they are just furnished houses and far from being homes.

Oftener than not, color conflict is the key to the failure of the home furnisher to achieve the desired end. In the six homes forming The Post "Home Beautiful" exhibit color harmony will be one of the first and one of the big phases to be considered and achieved—perhaps, it will be the biggest feature making for the success of the exhibit.

The most careful attention is now being given to the colors on the walls that a background may be provided which will eliminate all possibility of color clashes where draperies are hung and other furnishings are placed in the many rows.
